Second: R. Palladino

Vote: In Favor: 9 Opposed: 0 Abstain: 0

Board Business III/ Contingency Funding Board Guidelines and Procedures:

There is a need to examine and reiterate the guidelines and procedures of the Contingency Funding Board.

1. Organizations have come to the Funding Board requesting funding for events that have already taken place. Contingency Funding Board guideline number three states "the Funding Board will not be influenced by commitments made prior to their consideration of an organization's request and groups should not make financial commitments prior to requesting funds." This guideline needs to be enforced to dispel the perception that funding is guaranteed and does not promote proper program planning.
2. Faculty and staff may not apply for funding for programs or reimbursement for events from the Funding Board. This includes sending students to the Funding Board to secure their reimbursement or funding.
3. A particular area of concern is the use of personal credit cards used to pay for items like event tickets. It is dangerous for anyone, especially for a student, to use his or her credit card to purchase items for a program. Some students place items on credit even if funding has not been secured for their program. This is a problem because funding for an event is never guaranteed. Again, we need to encourage proper program planning and accountability.
4. The issue of conference funding has been raised. The members of the Funding Board need to create a working definition for the term "conference." Organizations are required to raise 25% of the cost of a conference if they request funding for more than two. Last year an organization challenged the definition of a conference. The Funding Board members decided on the following specifications regarding conferences:
 - A conference is described as an event that enhances the Lasallian community by creating an educational learning environment for students. This may include an event such as a tournament.
 - The Funding Board reserves the right to make the final decision regarding the definition of an event as a conference, trip, or student organization activity.
5. The Funding Board also discussed sending a letter to student organizations, advisors, Community Development staff (including RA's), Campus News, and the Collegian about the clarifications and concerns of the Funding Board.
6. Funding Board members must retrieve their proposal packets in a timely fashion. The students who are creating the proposals put effort in their proposals and they deserve to have them read in a timely manner.

Funding is available for City As Classroom activities for the Spring, 2001, semester. Applications will be accepted until Friday, December 8. An application form is attached to this memo.

The Council of Deans has adopted the following guidelines for review of City As Classroom funding applications:

Goal: to facilitate the use of the resources of the Greater Philadelphia Metropolitan area in the educational experience of students.

Guidelines for funding evaluation:

1. Priority will be given to funding for undergraduate classes.
2. Priority will be given to funding for activities that will not be available in future semesters (e.g., a special exhibit at a museum, a concert or play and so forth).
3. Priority will be given to discrete events rather than underwriting continuing costs of student participation in activities required by a course.
4. The number of participants can be given priority in decisions on funding.
5. Funding of admission costs will be limited to $12.00 per person.
6. When transportation is involved, the first choice is University-owned vehicles. If that is not feasible, rental must be arranged through the University's Purchasing Office.

THE FACULTY SENATE
Minutes of October 10, 2000 meeting

Present: G. Ballough, M. Bednar, S. Borkowski, D. Cichowicz, E. Cogan, S. DeTurk, E. Giardino, P. Heinzer, L. Miller, M. Moreau, D. Robison, J. Seydow, S. Smith, S. Stickel, T. Straub, J. Volpe, A. Walsh, J. Welsh, S. Wiley

Excused: J. Brogan, J. Pastis.

Guests: Brother Tri Nguyen, Frank Wilkinson

The meeting was called to order at 12:35 PM. The minutes of the Senate meeting of September 19, 2000 were approved as amended (14-0-1).

The Senate President reported that a faculty information forum on the Mediation Policy and Procedures is scheduled in the Board Room on November 29. The forum will be conducted by Caroline Packard of the Friends Conflict Resolution Programs and by University Mediation Committee members.

The Senate Select Committee on Election Policies presented proposed revisions to the By-Laws to the Constitution of the Faculty Senate. The first set of revisions clarified the eligibility criteria for candidacy to the Senate. After discussion, the Senate voted to accept the revisions (17-0-0). The second part of the revisions addressed alternative election procedures in the event of situations where the number of candidates per seat did not meet those prescribed in the By-Laws. After discussion, the Senate voted to accept alternative 2B (19-0-0). The revised by-laws, with the deletions, additions and proposed alternatives, are included as an attachment to the Minutes.

Brother Tri Nguyen asked the Senate to consider a review of the policies related to adjunct faculty, and to consider a formative review process for specific administrative positions, including Deans and Provosts. Regarding the former, Brother Tri will submit a written list of concerns to the Senate for discussion at the next meeting.

The Committee on Committees presented a recommendation for one vacancy on a University standing committee. The nomination was presented to the full Senate for discussion, and the Senate voted unanimously to accept the appointment. Due to unusual circumstances, the Senate voted (14-0-1) that in the case of a resignation from the Academic Affairs Committee during this academic year, the Senate Vice-President would complete the remaining year of the appointment.

The Senate Secretary announced that there was now a Senate web page accessible from the Faculty and Staff section of the University home page.

It was suggested that the Senate subcommittee on Student Affairs and Campus Life should review concerns raised about the Judiciary Committee.

The Senate adjourned at 2:02 PM.

Respectfully submitted,

Susan C. Borkowski

PART I. Recommended changes in the By-Laws to the Constitution of the Faculty Senate (key: deletions, additions)

A. Article III: Eligibility for Candidacy, pp. 40-B to 40-C:

1. For the purposes of eligibility for candidacy to the Senate and voting in Senate elections, the expression "full-time faculty" includes ~~faculty members with tenure or in tenure-track positions who ordinarily teach at least half time. This designation does not include any~~ faculty member receiving a Faculty Contract, except visiting faculty members, or faculty members with term appointments, or faculty with the status of lecturer.

It shall be understood that those faculty with status and rank in the Counseling Center who, prior to 1988, ordinarily ~~have had~~ been eligible to vote and to be elected to the Senate, are not to be excluded by this by-law ~~even if they teach less than half time.~~

(Rationale: Restricting eligibility to those who "ordinarily teach at least half time" meant that some faculty members with reductions in teaching load due to administrative responsibilities (e.g., program directors) were not eligible for election (or to vote, according to Article IV). By granting eligibility to anyone with a faculty contract, most faculty members with administrative responsibilities would be eligible (although deans and associate deans would not be).

2. For the purpose of election to the Faculty Senate ~~(a)~~ the full-time professional staff of the University library shall be considered members of the faculty. Determination of equivalent faculty rank for purposes of election to the Senate shall be made by the Senate Election Committee; ~~and (b) the full-time staff of the ROTC department shall be considered members of the faculty .~~
3. Eligibility for candidacy shall be based upon rank and status described in the most recently offered contract from the President of the University.
 - a) An Assistant Professor whose promotion to Associate Professor has been accepted by the President of the University effective the following Fall Semester shall be considered an Associate Professor during the election.
 - b) An Associate Professor whose promotion to the rank of Professor has been accepted by the President of the University effective the following Fall Semester shall be considered a Professor during the election.
 - ~~e) faculty members who have accepted leaves of absence for any semester of the following academic year will not be eligible to stand for election to the Senate.~~

~~d) faculty members who have been on leave of absence during the current semester but who have been tenured [sic] a full-time contract for the following academic year may be candidates for election to the Senate if they are otherwise eligible.~~

(Rationale: The Constitution of the Faculty Senate already indicates that a leave of absence is not grounds for automatic resignation from the Senate. Our by-laws, however, currently seem inconsistent with the spirit of the Constitution in not allowing a person who is going on leave to run for the senate. Some individuals going on sabbatical or research leave may be willing to serve on the senate; it does not seem appropriate to deprive the faculty of their service.)

4. The Senate Election Committee shall be the final judge of eligibility for candidacy.

B. Article II: Election Procedures, pp. 40A - 40B:

4. In the event of tie votes, decisions will be made by a coin toss.

~~4-5.~~ The Senate shall be the final judge of the election. [change in number only]

(Rationale: The possible methods for dealing with tie votes range from holding a runoff election to simply tossing a coin. Our committee's recommendation reflects our view that an expedient method should be used.)

PART II. Alternative Election Procedures

Our committee addressed three sets of concerns in considering revisions to the senate election procedures:

- The by-laws to our constitution indicate that "there must be at least two candidates for each Senate vacancy." Because of the tendency for many full professors to remove their names from the ballot, the elections committee has had to rely on their discretion in handling situations with fewer than two candidates per seat;
- If a rank does not have a full slate of candidates, at-large representatives are more likely to come from that rank (that is, vote counts tend to be higher for candidates in an under-represented rank because they are divided among fewer people); and
- Faculty members from the School of Nursing have complained that they are not well-served by an election procedure that does not ensure representation from their school. This raises the broader policy question of whether senators should be elected on some basis other than rank.

The subcommittee deliberated amending the constitution so as to replace our current system of electing senators according to rank with electing senators on the basis of some other characteristic. We weighed the consequences of electing faculty according to tenure status (e.g., tenured, nontenure track, and tenure track but not tenured); school (i.e., Nursing, SBA, A&S); and disciplinary group (e.g., humanities, social sciences, etc.). However, we concluded that there are a number of reasons to maintain a system of representation by rank:

- Changing from representation by rank would require substantial debate and discussion, as we could see from our subcommittee's own discussions of possible alternatives. For example, if senators are elected to represent different disciplinary groupings, there is likely to be debate regarding how the disciplines will be grouped, how many individuals from each group would be elected, who would vote for representatives from a particular grouping, and how elections would be staggered given that senators have multi-year terms. If the senate decides to pursue an alternative to representation by rank, they should do so with awareness that focusing on this issue will likely distract the senate from other matters.
- It is not clear what problems would be solved by making a change. For example, if voting were done by disciplinary groups, a small department might find it no easier to obtain representation than is currently the case. Also, although particular "interest groups" might at times feel underrepresented under our current system, recent history suggests that direct appeals to the faculty can have a substantial effect on election outcomes. Moreover, although many universities predefine such "interest groups" by having faculty members elect senators from their own disciplines, our system has the advantage of allowing faculty members to appeal for representation on a wide range of bases (e.g., status as an international faculty member, an AAUP member, or a nontenure track faculty member) or on no basis at all, other than an interest in participating on the senate.
- Grouping faculty members by school or disciplinary background might fuel divisiveness and self-interest, rather than promote a sense of community. Our current election system capitalizes on our being a small enough university that faculty members are able to get to know people from other departments and reinforces the view that senators are representatives of the entire faculty rather than of particular interests.

Our committee thus agreed to present the following alternatives for senate deliberation:

ALTERNATIVE 1

The first alternative is to leave the current electoral system in place. This would likely necessitate a change in the by-laws to clarify that the elections committee and/or senate would use their discretion in situations where there are fewer candidates than stipulated in the by-laws.

ALTERNATIVES 2A and 2B

Alternatives 2A and 2B both introduce a “proportional rule” for calculating votes for the at-large seats. However, Alternative 2A proposes to retain (and enforce) the requirement that there be at least 2 candidates for each seat, whereas Alternative 2B removes the requirement that there be at least two candidates per seat.

Under Alternative 2A, the following clarifications would be added to the by-laws:

- A. For a given faculty rank, the number of seats filled in an election cannot exceed the number of candidates minus one. Thus, if there are two candidates in a particular rank, only one seat can be filled. If there is one candidate, no “rank seats” can be filled.
- B. Senate seats left vacant can be filled in the next election if there are sufficient candidates. Senators elected to fill an existing vacancy serve only the time remaining in that term of service. In a given election, seats for three-year terms are filled before seats left open from previous elections.
- C. All candidates are eligible for election to the at-large seat; however, votes are weighted according to the number of candidates in that rank using the following formula:

$$\text{weighted at-large vote} = \text{votes cast} \times \frac{\text{number of candidates in rank}}{\text{maximum permitted candidates in rank}}$$

Under Alternative 2B, the following clarifications would be added to the by-laws:

- A. If there is no candidate in a given rank, both seats for that rank are left vacant.
- B. If there is one candidate in a given rank, one seat for that rank is left vacant.
- C. If there are two or more candidates in a given rank, both seats are filled.
- D. Senate seats left vacant can be filled in the next election if there are sufficient candidates. Senators elected to fill an existing vacancy serve only the time remaining in that term of service. In a given election, seats for three-year terms are filled before seats left open from previous elections.
- E. All candidates are eligible for election to the at-large seat; however, votes are weighted according to the number of candidates in that rank using the following formula:

$$\text{weighted at-large vote} = \text{votes cast} \times \frac{\text{number of candidates in rank}}{\text{maximum permitted candidates in rank}}$$
